Only Six Days-Day's Proceedings in Court-No Disposition of Mrs. Mack's Case.

New York, Nov. 30.-Martin Thorn was todar convicted of murder in the first degree for killing William Guidensuppe, his predecessor in the affections of Mrs. Augustu Nack, at Woodside, L. I., on June 25. At the request of Thorn's counsel the passage of the death sent-ence was deferred until next Friday morning. Thorn hard the jurymen pulled of helr verdick, but his face never c ged furing the trying ordeal.
With it itemis compressed and jaws hard set he faced the judge, jury and court room full of spectators, with well-

LINE OF DEFENSE CHANGED. LINE OF DEFENSE CHANGED.

Mrs. Nack's testimony during the mistrial made it compulsory for Thorn's lawyers to change their line of defense in the second trial, and they made a direct charge against Mrs. Nack and insisted that her alleged confession was a lie, and she herself was the instigator and percetrator of the murder. Thorn being igno ant of the killing until after Guidenauppe had been shot by Mrs. Nack. The woman was not produced during the second trial, but Thorn went on the stund and substantiated all the assertions made by his lawyers as to the midwife's guilt. The story did not have the desired effect upon the jurymen.

Mr. Young having concluded, Judge laddox called on the jury to stand up, horn watched them closely. When the digge began his charge, Thorn's face took a slight flush, he fastened his eyes a the justice and was evidently impossed with the solomnity of the occasion.

JURY CAME IN.

At 5:29 Judge Maddox re-entered the court room and directed the jurors to be brought in. Martin Thorn was brought in by Sheriff Dohl. The prisoner did not show any signs of nervousness as the jurors filed into the box and answered their names. Thorn faced the jurors stockally but it was easily sten that he was controlling humself with great difficulty. His inwyers evidently were more perturbed than Thorn.

When the jurors stood up, the clerk of the court addressed them and said:
"How say you, gentlemen, is the prisoner suilty or not suilty?"

There was a painful silence and the jurors looked at each other, evidently wondering who should answer. Finally Foreman Mores spoke in a joiting, nervous way and said:
"We find the prisoner, Martin Thorn, guilty of the charge as preferred."

Then the clerk read the verilet from the back of the saper handed to him by the foreman. Lawyer Howe asked that the jury be police. As the name of cheft man was called and be was asked. "Is that your verdett?" he answered, "Tee, sir."

This request was granted and Mr. Howe said: "Thank you; that is all," and Thorn was taken away, still learing himself as coolly as ever.

None of the lurors would tell anything about their deliberations, but it was learned from reliable persons that the first six ballots stood il to I for convic-

CONFESSED THE MURDER. Thorn Lied All Along to Save Himself-Glad It's Over.

New York, Nov. 30.—When Martin Thorn had been led back to his cell after the conviction, he admitted that the verdict was just and that he and not Mrs. Nack killed Guidensuppe. This acknowledgement of guilt took place while Thorn's cell in the jall was being prepared for him. During the trial Thorn. Thorn's cell in the jall was being prepared for him. During the trial Thorn has been in the charge of Police, Captain Methven of Flushing. Captain Methven of Flushing. Captain Methven his had him under his watchful eye when the jail officials searched the cell that Thorn is to occupy for a day or two. While this was being done Thorn talked with the police captain. He said: "I am glad it is over and the verdict given. I am convicted and I am contented. It was I who killed Guidensuppe and I believe every word that Mrs. Nack said upon the stand was substantially correct. When I was on the stand I lied to clear myself. It is no use carrying it any further. I am guilty and am convicted. It is what I expected, and what I suppose people think I deserve, and perhaps I do."

Martin Thorn, who sat in his cell last evening sneering and defiant, talked of the time when he was to be sent away, as though his execution was only a barber's Sunday afternoon off.

"I am glad," he said, "that the jury did not disagree. I would rather have them give a verdict of murder in the first degree than to have them disagree or to give a verdict in any other degree. I wanted either an acquittal or a verdict in the first degree. I wish to deny," he continued, "that I confessed to anybody after the giving of the verdict, that Mrs. Nack's story was the correct one. Everythins happened just as I told it on the stand."

He showed a trace of feeling when Mrs. Nack was referred to.

"It does not make any difference to me," he said, "what they do with her. You need not trouble yourself about me trying to commit suicide," he continued. "I'm not going to do anything to save the county or state the expense of killing me, I will make the state pay for its trouble. That's what I mean."

He have occupied the principal the navy occupied the principal place in the speech. The passage on this subject was as follows:

Itinerary of the Colorado Investi-

Beaman and C. E. Noble, two of the members of Governor Adams' investigating committee, will leave Denver tomorrow for Steambout Springs, where they will be joined by J. Walbridge, the third member, and proceed to look into the Indian trouble. They will summon Warden Wilcox to Steambout Springs, and take his testimony. From this point all will go to Craig, 42 miles beyond, where the commissioners will make their headquarters during the investigation. There they will find five of the men who participated in the shooting affair in which the Indians were killed. Their names are Jack White, E. A. Brotherton, Miles Overholt, Tom Kimberly and A. G. Bennett. These will be summoned to discuss the events lending up to the shooting and exactly what happened during the affair.

After completing their labors at Craig the commissioners and Game Warden Wilcox will go to Maybell, a distance of 45 miles, where they will examine J. H. Templeton, C. B. Thompson and a Mr. Armstrong. The battle ground, about 15 miles from Maybell, will then be gone over.

From here the board will go to Fort Duschesne. Then the Indians who sur-vived the shooting will be summoned to tell their stories. A thorough investigation will be made from every possible standpoint.

The agent alleges that without doubt nearly all these claims are fraudulent, and that these Indians also have just claims against the United States that should be adjusted. It is claimed that there are large bodies of land in Colorado that they have relinquished their rights in on condition that it should be sold and the proceeds accrue to their benefit; that no credits have been made to them from such sales, and that most of these lands have been set aside by executive orders for public purks, for which, if so retained, it is urged they should be paid.

Townsite.

(Special to The Heraid.)

Bolse, Ida., Nov. 20.—A tangled skein of litigation, through which a thread of Intent to defraud was woven, was disposed of by the supreme court yesterday. It was the case of Rebecca Ann Wilcox, appellant vs. Charles Decre et al. and N. J. Davis, sheriff of Bear Lake county. The judament of the district court for Bear Lake county was affirmed.

The defendants, constituting the firm of Decre. Wells & Co., secured Judgment in the district court against Prancis Wilcox, husband of Rebecca Ann Wilcox, and George E. Wilcox on a debt due for agricultural implements furnished them. Execution was issued on this judgment and levied upon certain real estate claimed to be the property of Francis Wilcox. The sheriff was enjoined by Sarah Ann Wilcox from making a sale, she claiming the property a tract in the Paris townsite. The lower court found, among other things, that the transfer of the townsite property was with intent to defraud. This the supreme court affirms.

court-martial in the case of Captain Leonard A. Lovering, Fourth infantry, the record of the proceedings and the findings of the court. The secretary admits that the officer has been found guilty of ill-freating Private Hammond at Fort Speridan, and has been secretary of war.

Secretary Alger took the papers over to the cubinet meeting today and they were discussed. It is understood that the proceedings will be approved by the department and that the reprimand will be administered through publication in official orders. It is understood the reprimand will be severe.

A new trial cannot be ordered, and if the department disapproved of the sentence on the ground that it is too lenient, the effect would be to release the officer from any punishment, so the only recourse is to approve the sentence of the court, although it may be some days before the pupers reach him, having first to go to the judge advocate general of the war department and then to General Miles for his endorsement.

court room full of speciators, with wear regards stoicism.

About three weeks ago Thorn's first-trial on the charge of nurder was be-gue, but owing to the lilness of a juror it had to be abandoned after three days. A second trial opened a week ago hast Monday, and counting out three days on which the court did not sit, the trial consumed only six days.

JURY'S DELAY GAVE HOPE.

Judge Maddow's charge was carefully prepared and well delivered. It was acknowledged by the lawyers for the prisoner to be very lucid, fair and impartial. The jury remained in deliberation just three hours when they sent word to the judge that they were ready to render a vertice. The fact of their remaining out so long gave hope to the defense, out as each one of them took his seat in the jury box, his facial expression told very distinctly the result of the three hours conference.

"Grilly of the charge preferred." were the emmons words which fell from the light of the foreman of the jury Thorn's law, ex moved for a new trial on the ground that the verdict was not in accordance with the weight of the evidence, but the motion was over-ruled.

Just what will become of Mrs. Nack has not been made known by the Queen's county authorities, but it is generally thought that the people will accept a plea from her which will not call for capital punishment.

Thorn all the time was looking steadilly at the front row of the jurors. He dropped into his seat the moment the roll call was completed.

District Attorney Young then arose and moved that a day be set for sentence. He (Howe) was on his feet immediately and moved for a new titld on the ground that the verdict was against the evidence and the weight of evidence additeed. Judge Maddox denied the motion.

Mr. Howe asked the court to postpone the passing of sentence until next Friday next at 10 o'clock in the morning. Then the court thanked the jury and discharged them.

Just then Theorn ionned over and spoke to his lawyers. The judge directed that Thorn be removed from the court room. Mr. Howe stose, and addressing the judge, salt! "If it please your honor, I would like a few unhalts conversation with my client right here.
